

Personal Career Coaching

Transforming uncertainty into opportunity!

Career Coaching with Angela Kontgen

Career pathing or transitioning is a strategic process and finding the next right opportunity is not simply about a resume 'tune up' it's about getting into the drivers seat of your career and getting into consistent & strategic activity.

Investment:

725.00 plus HST - initial investment for foundational work on resume, LinkedIn and Market Plan

150.00 plus HST for each follow up meeting - recommend twice a month for first one to two months to kick start process and provide strategic support and then once per month afterward to maintain momentum and stay on track with objectives till goal is reached.

We will meet via zoom meeting

I am available by e mail at angela@angelakontgen.com and aim to respond within 24 hours or via text at 289 888 1227

The Process

Tailored to your goals and needs

Getting Clear & Creating a Plan

- To kick start things I'll do a resume & LinkedIn review and customization, start to create a Market Plan (a representation of where you are going) & research into bridge positions

Building your Brand

- You are a brand and a huge aspect of this path is learning how to promote yourself & talk about yourself whether in a networking conversation or in an interview - a vital career skill to focus on and develop

Getting Out There

- Finding the next right opportunity is very much about getting out there and building strategic networking actions into your week, month and year. Today according to Forbes networking is an essential career skill set and anyone can build it - together we will strategize and get better in this area so you can findWe that amazing opportunity